Slip and Hide: Dressing Up Simple Tables

After interior organizer and home stylist Noelle Micek discovered her kid clients' favorite toys were their tools, she created a customized table apron to house their beloved screwdrivers, hammers and pliers. Now not only is it easier for the boys to find their tools, their special "table tool belt" keeps them motivated to put them back when they're done. Plus, she created washable slipcovers to protect the chairs from errant paint and markers.

All-Star Storage: Sport-acular Closet Organization

New York apartments aren't exactly known for their ample storage space, but interior decorator and professional organizer Dawn Falcone hit a home run for this active family who needed a place to store their three active kids' sports equipment. Determined to use every inch of space, Falcone chose adjustable shelving and added a drawer unit on rollers for smaller items like gloves, wrist bands and protective padding. She finished the space with hooks for sweatshirts, tennis rackets and caps.
